TOM DIXON

FOR CAESARSTONE

British product designer Tom Dixon along with Quartz manufacturer Caesarstone unveiled a multi-sensory dining experience, The Restaurant. Set in Rotonda della Besana, the interactive installation consisted of four conceptual kitchens and dining halls inspired by the elements of earth, fire, water and air.

SALONE DEL MOBILE 2016 NAMES TO KNOW

The brightest luminaries who radiated magic at the fair

PATRIZIA MOROSO At the fair, Moroso showcased nine new lines. Its Creative Director spoke to us on the importance of longevity: "Durability is an important feature for sustainability. I hope our objects see a very far future and become vintage pieces."

NADJA SWAROVSKI

FOR ATELIER SWAROVSKI HOME

Telling us about her vision behind the new accessories range, Nadja Swarovski said, "The mission was to come up with a range that's affordable and can fit into a home. All the designers had to use crystal with another material in their product."

MATTEO THUN

The Italian architect launched his own brand of handcrafted furniture, lighting, decorative objects and patterns under Matteo Thun Atelier. We particularly liked the ceramic series that can be customised to 13 colour combinations.
